RE: Inquiry into regional banking

I would like to add to the chorus of those who are calling for the establishment of a new national bank, modelled on the old Commonwealth Bank of Australia. The time spent campaigning in rural Western Australia has made it clear that banking reform is needed and that we as nation must have a return to productivity and value adding of goods. The creation of a new national bank to provide credit to productive enterprise, along with the implementation of a Glass-Steagall standard would go a long way toward achieving this.

With thanks,

Joshua Camm
